

Cyber Exposure and Insurance Solutions

Speakers: Mr. Kegan Chan, VP, Analytics Sales Leader - Asia, Marsh

Mr. Oliver Howell, AVP, Financial Institutions Industry Leader and Cyber Champion, Marsh

In recent months, cyber security risks have been in the spotlight, with incidents like the WannaCry ransomware attacks recorded on at least hundreds of thousands of targets across 150 countries globally. Many organisations, including businesses across sectors and industries, government agencies, and even emergency services, had experienced disruptions in their operations.

From the onset of these events, organisations are seeking advice, interested in finding out how to deal with the fallout from the situation, whether they had been directly affected or otherwise. There is also a high level of interest in the measures that organisations can adopt to better protect themselves from future attacks. ASHK has invited specialists in risk management and insurance to share their thoughts in addressing these concerns and how to better leverage the use of risk management quantification approaches to help these corporations to manage their risks. Topics to be covered are:

- Cyber Risk Landscape & Threat Environment
- Data Breach Regulations
- Insurance Solutions
- Cyber Risk Management
- Cyber Incidents in Asia

Mr. Kegan Chan is the Analytics Sales Leader in Asia under Marsh Global Analytics. He is responsible for cyber risk quantification, risk tolerance, risk retention, business interruption, supply chain resiliency, crisis management, operational risk and enterprise risk management. One of the key emerging issues Oliver addresses with key clients is cyber risk, where he often goes to meet and present to clients regarding loss trends, recent notable cyber events and risk mitigation, whilst also advising on how insurance can be used as a risk transfer and balance sheet protector for cyber risks. Oliver is also required to ensure that colleagues are aligned in their interpretation of cyber contracts, and will lead local cyber initiatives, whilst acting in an advisory and placement role for cyber prospects and clients.
